PRIMUM AUXILIUM · MEIS - AL WURUD STUDENT CLUBS

Club Proctor Guide

Volunteer Proctors

For Primum Auxilium volunteers assigned to proctor a club.

As a Primum Auxilium volunteer proctoring a club, you keep it safe and orderly so the Club Teacher can lead. During sessions you follow the Club Teacher's directions; outside sessions you answer to the Head of Volunteers. Read this guide before your first session.

1 About the clubs program

Clubs at MEIS - Al Wurud are student-led, run by the La Pasión Student Council, and overseen by the MEIS - Al Wurud administration. Every club follows this handbook, school policy, and the laws and values of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

Purpose. Clubs give students a place to learn a skill, follow an interest, and lead their peers outside regular classes.

Oversight. The administration has approved the clubs program and keeps final authority over it. The council runs clubs day to day on the administration's behalf. Any rule here can be overridden by the administration.

2 Roles and reporting

Each club has exactly one Club Teacher and two volunteer proctors. Problems move up one level at a time, and anything serious goes straight to the administration.

Role	Who	Main job	Reports to
Administration	MEIS - Al Wurud school leadership	Final authority over the program; handles serious incidents	—
Head of PR	La Pasión council	Creates clubs, appoints Club Teachers, sets schedules and rooms, suspends or closes clubs	Administration
Head of Volunteers	La Pasión council	Assigns, trains and supervises proctors; handles proctor conduct	Administration
Club Teacher	One selected Grade 12 student per club	Plans and leads every session; in charge of the room	Head of PR
Volunteer proctor	Two council volunteers per club	Keeps the session safe and orderly; follows the Club Teacher's directions	Club Teacher in sessions; Head of Volunteers otherwise
Club member	Any student who joins	Takes part, follows the rules, notifies absences	Club Teacher

Who to go to

- Questions about a club's content, schedule or membership: the Club Teacher, then the Head of PR.
- Questions about proctors, their duties or their conduct: the Head of Volunteers.
- Safety, health, bullying, or anything a student cannot share with the council: a member of the administration or the school nurse, immediately.

3 Your role as a proctor

Two volunteers proctor every club. During a session they take their directions from the Club Teacher; outside sessions they answer to the Head of Volunteers.

Assignment

1. The Head of Volunteers assigns proctors to clubs and can change assignments at any time.
2. Proctoring counts as Primum Auxilium volunteer service and is logged the same way as your other volunteering.
3. Before your first session you must read this guide and be briefed by the Head of Volunteers.

Your duties

1. Arrive at least 10 minutes before the session and report to the Club Teacher for your briefing.
2. Listen to the Club Teacher and carry out his directions promptly. Do not overrule him in front of members; raise disagreements privately after the session.
3. Help with check-in and attendance when asked.
4. Watch the room: one proctor near the door, one moving among members, unless the Club Teacher sets it up differently.
5. Keep order calmly. A quiet word or standing nearby comes first; follow the discipline steps for anything more.
6. Track members who leave the room and make sure they return.
7. Take charge if the Club Teacher steps out, and keep the activity running as he planned it until he returns.
8. Act immediately in an emergency and then inform the Club Teacher.
9. Help set up and tidy the room, and stay until the last member has left.

Proctors must not

- Run a session without a Club Teacher present.
- Change the activity or the rules without the Club Teacher's agreement.
- Use phones for personal use while on duty.
- Discipline members by shouting, threatening or touching them, or take part in or ignore hazing.
- Leave their post before the session ends without telling the Club Teacher.

Absence

If you cannot attend, tell the Club Teacher and the Head of Volunteers as early as possible so a replacement can be found. Repeated unexplained absence from proctoring may end your assignment.

If the Club Teacher breaks the rules

Follow his directions unless they are unsafe or against school rules. Report any concern about a Club Teacher to the Head of Volunteers, who will raise it with the Head of PR.

4 Your session routine

Run through this routine at every session you proctor.

Before

- [ ] Arrive 10 minutes early
- [ ] Report to the Club Teacher for your briefing
- [ ] Know your position and what to watch for
- [ ] Help set up the room and check exits are clear

During

- [ ] Help with check-in and attendance
- [ ] Stay at your post; phone away
- [ ] Track anyone who leaves the room
- [ ] Quiet word first, then the discipline steps

After

- [ ] Help tidy the room and return equipment
- [ ] Stay until the last member has left
- [ ] Tell the Club Teacher anything you noticed
- [ ] Tell the Club Teacher you are leaving, once everyone has gone

5 The rules members follow

These are the rules every member agrees to. You are expected to know them and to enforce them fairly.

- Absence is not punished, but members must notify the Club Teacher as early as they can.
- Members follow the directions of the Club Teacher and the proctors.
- Respect for everyone: no insults, mocking, bullying, fighting or rough play.
- Behaviour, language and content in line with school rules, Islamic values and Saudi law.
- Phones only when the Club Teacher allows it. No photos or recordings of students without permission.
- Care for the room and equipment; no food or drink unless allowed.
- Leave the room only with permission, telling a proctor where you are going.
- Report feeling unwell or unsafe straight away.

6 Conduct, safety and discipline

Safety always comes first, and discipline moves in small steps. Students never punish other students; serious matters go to the administration.

Discipline steps for members

1. Reminder. A proctor or the Club Teacher reminds the member of the rule, quietly.
2. Warning. The Club Teacher speaks to the member privately and notes it in the session report.
3. Time out. The member sits apart from the activity for the rest of the session, still supervised.
4. Referral. After repeated problems in one term, the Club Teacher refers the member to the Head of PR, who may meet him or remove him from the club.
5. Administration. Fighting, bullying, harassment, theft, damage, unsafe behaviour or anything against Saudi law skips the steps and goes straight to the administration the same day.

Discipline for Club Teachers and proctors

- Club Teachers: concerns go to the Head of PR, who may warn, suspend or replace the Club Teacher.
- Proctors: concerns go to the Head of Volunteers, who may warn, reassign or remove the proctor.
- Serious misconduct by either goes to the administration.

Emergencies

1. Injury or illness: keep the student still and calm, send a proctor for the school nurse, and inform the Club Teacher.
2. Fire alarm or evacuation: stop the activity, follow the school's evacuation route, and take the attendance list to count members at the assembly point.
3. A missing member: tell the Club Teacher at once; one proctor searches nearby while the other stays with the group. If he is not found within a few minutes, inform the administration.
4. A student shares that he is being harmed or is unsafe: listen, do not promise to keep it secret, and tell the administration the same day. Do not investigate yourself.
5. After any emergency, the Club Teacher files an Incident report on the same day.

Respect and privacy

- Every member is treated equally, whatever his grade, nationality or background.
- Members' names, contact details, grades and photos stay inside the club and the council.
- Club group chats, if used, must include the Club Teacher, follow the same rules as sessions, and be approved by the Head of PR.

7 Reporting issues and protecting the Council

Club and council matters are handled inside the council, through the proper chain, and are not taken outside it. This policy protects the council, its members and everyone who takes part in clubs.

Where to report an issue

1. An issue inside a club (a member, the club, the Club Teacher's session, or any council matter): report it to the Club Teacher first. If the Club Teacher is involved, or the issue is not solved, report it to the Head of PR.
2. An issue about a proctor: report it to the Head of Volunteers.
3. Reports are made privately, calmly and in person or by direct message to the person concerned. The Head of PR and the Head of Volunteers handle every report fairly and keep it confidential.

What is not allowed

- Escalating an issue before reporting it to the Head of PR (or, for an issue about a proctor, the Head of Volunteers). Escalating includes running straight to the administration before consulting the chain above, and going to other students, social media, group chats or outside people instead.
- Spreading rumours, complaints or club and council matters in public or online.
- Posting or sharing photos, recordings, messages or details from clubs without approval.

> Permanent ban
>
> Anyone who escalates an issue before reporting it to the Head of PR, or who otherwise breaks this policy, is permanently banned from taking part in clubs and from volunteering with Primum Auxilium, including the Club Teacher and proctor roles. The Head of PR and the Head of Volunteers record the decision, and the administration is informed.

> Safety always comes first
>
> If someone is hurt, unwell or in danger, or a student is being harmed, tell a proctor, the Club Teacher, the school nurse or the administration straight away. This policy never stops anyone from doing that, and nobody is penalised for reporting a real safety concern in good faith.

No hazing

Hazing is any initiation, ritual, challenge, dare, prank, forced task or humiliation, physical or not, used to join, stay in, or rank within a club. It is banned in every club, whether or not the other person agrees to it.

- No member, Club Teacher or proctor may start, take part in, encourage or ignore hazing.
- Anyone who sees hazing reports it to the Club Teacher or a proctor at once, or to the administration if the Club Teacher or a proctor is involved.
- Hazing is a serious matter. The person is removed from the club immediately, and the case goes to the administration the same day.
